

Hurrdat network press release // JANUARY 14, 2021

Hurrdat Media Network launches podcast Shelter in Place, hosted by Laura Joyce Davis.

Omaha, Nebraska: Hurrdat, a media, marketing and entertainment agency, is excited to announce a new partnership with Shelter in Place, a podcast about coming together in a world that pulls us apart. When 2020 knocked her down, host Laura Joyce Davis had a choice: reach out or retreat?

Through quarantine, job loss, wildfires, and a cross-country move, her new podcast Shelter in Place became the way she and her family created community while rewriting life along the way. Through open-hearted memoir and authentic conversations, Season 2 follows the Davises on their pandemic Odyssey across a divided nation as they seek not just safety, but a place that everyone can call home.

Recent episodes have featured an epidemiologist from President-elect Biden's COVID task force, an award-winning poet, and a leading scholar of education. With a unique blend of open-hearted memoir and authentic conversations, Shelter in Place appeals to listeners across the country, and from many stages of life.

"Laura has this very writerly way of drawing together the personal and the universal, and making it flow together in a way that is masterful and comforting at the same time." — Journalist Elaine Grant

Learn: Shelterinplacepodcast.info // More about Laura // Refer a friend

Connect: Facebook // Instagram // Twitter // Email

Listen: Apple Podcasts // Google Podcasts // Spotify

Short host bio:

Laura Joyce Davis writes to explore the triumph of the human spirit in a broken world. A Fulbright scholar, Laura also won the Poets & Writers Exchange Award, earned Pushcart Prize and Best New American Voices nominations for fiction, and was a finalist for WNYC's podcast accelerator. Also a mom of three, in previous lives, she was a running coach, a capella singer, and scholarship athlete.

About Hurrdat Media:

Hurrdat Media is a one of a kind digital media agency based in Omaha, NE, that offers media, marketing and entertainment agency services for brands and businesses of all sizes that want to reach new audiences online. hurrdat.com.